

Nomura Greentech Hires Yohan Minaya as Managing Director

June 6, 2022

Nomura Greentech is pleased to announce that Yohan Minaya has joined the firm as a Managing Director. Yohan will be based in the New York office and will lead the NextGen Ocean & Air Transportation practice and help the firm enhance its well-established Sustainable Infrastructure coverage efforts.

Yohan has spent over 15 years specializing in transportation and infrastructure. Most recently, Yohan was a Managing Director at Evercore where he was instrumental in developing a global transportation and infrastructure investment banking franchise. He has advised many clients on important, global M&A transactions, public and private capital raises and corporate restructurings. He began his investment banking career at Merrill Lynch. Yohan received his B.A. in Economics with Honors from Brown University.

Jeff McDermott, Global Co-head of Investment Banking at Nomura and founder of Nomura Greentech said, “Our NextGen Ocean and Air Transportation practice is a key priority for Nomura Greentech and represents a huge decarbonization opportunity. Yohan’s track record in investment banking is outstanding and we are delighted to welcome him to the firm.”

Yohan Minaya said, “Nomura Greentech is a premier advisor across the Sustainable Technology and Infrastructure sectors. Their commitment to excellence, integrity and long-term client focus is highly valued by clients. I am excited to work with transportation companies in their decarbonization efforts as well as expand Nomura Greentech’s infrastructure franchise.”
